Circet Americas Acquires Sunrise Telecom to Strengthen its OSP Capabilities and Expand its Geographic Reach

Saint Louis, Missouri - August 6, 2026 - Circet Americas, one of North America's leading providers of communications infrastructure services, today announced the acquisition of Sunrise Telecom, a leading provider of outside plant ('OSP') construction and network services supporting major broadband and communications providers across the United States.

Sunrise Telecom has earned a strong reputation for delivering high-quality OSP construction, maintenance, and network deployment services. The company's long-standing customer relationships, skilled workforce, and commitment to operational excellence have made it a trusted partner in broadband expansion and network modernization initiatives across its markets.

The acquisition further strengthens Circet Americas' OSP capabilities and expands its geographic reach, enhancing its ability to deliver comprehensive end-to-end network infrastructure solutions to customers across key U.S. markets. The transaction also advances Circet Americas' strategy of building a scaled national platform capable of supporting the growing broadband, fiber, wireless, and digital infrastructure requirements of its customers.

Adam Baumgartner, CEO of Sunrise Telecom, commented: "Joining Circet Americas is an exciting opportunity for Sunrise Telecom. Circet's scale, financial strength, and national platform will create new opportunities for our employees while enabling us to deliver even greater value to our customers. Most importantly, we share a common commitment to safety, operational excellence, and customer service. We look forward to building on our success together as part of the Circet organization".

Trevor Putrah, CEO of Circet Americas, commented: "Following the transformational acquisitions of Blue Streak, CCU, and SourceOne, the addition of Sunrise Telecom marks another significant step in our strategy to build the premier national OSP platform in the United States. Sunrise has earned a reputation as a trusted partner to leading telecommunications operators, and its values and culture align closely with our own. Together, we will be even better positioned to support our customers as they invest in next-generation broadband and digital infrastructure. We are proud to welcome the Sunrise Telecom team to Circet and look forward to building on our shared success in the years ahead".
